BUSCH CAMPUS

Self-Guided Tour

Cross Bartholomew Road from Lot 51 to the Busch Dining Hall.

1 Our dining halls operate on an "all you care to eat" system. One meal swipe into any of our dining halls lets you help yourself as long as you are there. First-year students that live on campus are required to have 210 meal swipes per semester which include a takeout option if you are on the go. The Busch Dining Hall is the only dining hall with a fireplace! Leave the Busch Dining Hall and walk into the Busch Student Center next door.

2 The Busch Student Center is one of five students centers at Rutgers-New Brunswick which includes meeting rooms for clubs, a multipurpose hall for guest speakers, and places to study or hang out with friends. You can also eat in the food court by using cash, debit/credit, or RU Express, a debit card option for your Rutgers ID card. Walk through the Busch Student Center towards the back exit by Career Services and the Rutgers University Police Department (RUPD) Office.

On your left you will see one of our two Career Services centers, where students can go for assistance with building their resume, practicing interview skills, and applying to internships and jobs for students and alumni. They also host our two large Career Fairs, one in the fall and another in the spring. Walk out of the back exit of the Busch Student Center towards the Engineering Quad.

Our Engineering Quad is located in the academic section of Busch campus. It is the home of our STEM majors like physics, chemistry, biology, mathematics, computer science, and nine different specializations of engineering! The Hill Center houses our mathematics and computer science departments, including the New Brunswick Computing Services (NBCS) help desk, where students answer calls about computing difficulties. The Wright-Reiman Chemistry Building contains laboratories for classes and research. Walk past SERC and the Wright-Reiman Chemistry Building to the Allison Road Classroom (ARC) Building.

3 The Allison Road Classroom (ARC) Building includes lecture halls, one of many computer labs on the first floor, classrooms on the second floor, and a Math and Science Learning Center (MSLC) on the third floor. Only 7% of the classes at Rutgers are in large lecture halls, which are typical for our general education classes. However, as you get closer to finishing your major, class sizes become smaller. There are computer labs on all of the campuses, and students have $30 of printing credit on their Rutgers ID card. The MSLC is one of five learning centers that have free tutoring for one-on-one attention. Exit ARC and walk into the Library of Science and Medicine (LSM).

4 The Library of Science and Medicine (LSM) is one of our 21 libraries at Rutgers-New Brunswick. There are multiple floors with quiet study rooms that you can reserve for groups and computer labs. Walk back towards ARC and the Psychology building. Continue down this path past the Hill Center to Lot 64. Walk through the parking lot to the front of Sonny Werblin Recreation Center.

5 The Sonny Werblin Recreation Center is one of our four recreation centers, free for students. Inside there are basketball courts, a fitness center, saunas, racquetball courts, a spinning room, and an Olympic-size pool and diving board. Students can purchase a Flex Pass, which provides unlimited recreation classes in all of our recreation centers.

-Leave Sonny Werblin Recreation Center through the main entrance and turn left. Follow the sidewalk along Bartholomew Road towards the Busch Student Center. Once there, feel free to relax, grab a bite to eat, or check out some Rutgers apparel at the Recharge U store.
